TO ALL LOCAL GOVERNMENTS, PLANNING BODIES AND PUBLIC LIBRARIES

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Enclosed herewith is a copy of the appropriate section of the Statewide Inventory of Historic Properties as expanded under special contract by Stephen Dow Beckham in 1976.

We hope and trust that the Inventory will assist you in the development of your comprehensive plans and other matters. It should be remembered that the Inventory is not complete in this form. It will be revised and enlarged continually. Moreover, archeological sites are not included for purposes of site protection. In many cases, properties which have been entered into the National Register of Historic Places are not included. We are including as an addendum a listing of properties in your area which were included in the Inventory prior to 1976.

If questions regarding the Inventory arise, please contact us at 378-5001.

Sincerely,

Paul B. Hartwig
Historic Preservation Coordinator

NATIONAL REGISTER OF HISTORIC PLACES:

The National Register of Historic Places is the official list of the nation's cultural resources worthy of preservation. It is maintained by the National Park Service under authority of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966. The list contains districts, sites, archeological sites, buildings, structures and objects of national, state or local significance. National Historic Landmarks are automatically included. A cumulative listing of all National Register properties is published annually in the February issue of the Federal Register, the regular Congressional publication. Under certain circumstances, National Register properties are eligible for federal preservation assistance.

DEFINITIONS OF PRESERVATION TERMS AS USED BY THE NATIONAL PARK SERVICE:

Preservation is the process of sustaining the form and extent of a structure essentially as it now exists. Preservation aims at halting further deterioration and providing structural stability but does not contemplate significant rebuilding.

Restoration is the process of accurately recovering the form and details of a property as it appeared at a particular period of time by means of removal of later work and the replacement of missing original work.

Reconstruction is the process of reproducing by new construction the exact form and detail of a vanished structure, or part of it, as it appeared at a specific period of time. Reconstruction should be undertaken only when the property to be reconstructed is essential for understanding and interpreting the value of a historical district and sufficient historical documentation exists to insure an exact reproduction of the original.

Rehabilitation is the process of returning a property to a state of utility, through repair or alteration, which makes possible an efficient contemporary use. In rehabilitation, those portions of the property which are important in illustrating historic and cultural values are preserved or restored.

- - - - -

National Parks - Outstanding, relatively spacious land and water areas under federal ownership. They usually contain a diversity of scenic, scientific and other values and support a broad range of visitor-use programs.

National Monuments - Outstanding land and water areas, usually under federal ownership. They generally contain lesser acreage than National Parks and support a narrower range of visitor-use programs. Their purpose is to preserve resources of special scientific significance.

National Historic Sites - Properties of outstanding historical value to the nation as a whole. They may be under federal, state or local ownership. In the latter cases, the National Park Service acts in an advisory capacity.

National Memorials - Properties commemorating historic events and/or personages of exceptional significance to the nation. Usually they are under National Park Service jurisdiction, but ownership may be mixed.

National Historic Landmarks - Outstanding examples of the nation's historical and/or cultural patrimony. They are evaluated and recommended for designation by the Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings, and Monuments. Federal ownership is not implied. Ownership may be public or private, but owner must agree to maintain property in accord with accepted preservation precepts if he accepts designation. Landmark status offers higher priority in the distribution of grants-in-aid under the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 and is acknowledged by a bronze plaque and a certificate from the Secretary of the Interior.

National Survey of Historic Sites and Buildings - Conducted by the National Park Service under authority of the Historic Sites Act of 1935 for purposes of identifying historic and prehistoric places of national significance. The Survey forms the basis of National Historic Landmark designations.

HABS - Historic American Buildings Survey - Initiated by the National Park Service in 1933 for purposes of assembling a national collection of detailed records of historically and architecturally significant buildings. Conducted in cooperation with the American Institute of Architects and the Library of Congress.

HAER - Historic American Engineering Record - Established by the National Park Service in 1969 for purposes of documenting historic engineering, industrial and technological works. Conducted in cooperation with the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Library of Congress.

Cultural Resources In Oregon

To date, some 70% of the State of Oregon has been surveyed by historians to identify historic sites and buildings important to Oregon's past. At the same time, only some three percent of the state has been surveyed by archeologists. The results of these cultural resource surveys indicate that Oregon contains some 2,500 historic sites worthy of placement on the Statewide Inventory and perhaps some 120,000 archeological sites, for a density of about 1.3 cultural sites per square mile.

The large difference between numbers of historic and archeologic sites is merely a reflection of the fact that Indians have lived here for some 20,000 years while Euro-Americans have been in Oregon only about 173 years. The large gap between seventy percent and three percent in completeness of surveys is due to several factors: 1) archeological sites are "buried" to a greater degree and therefore more difficult to locate 2) historians have written records to utilize, often telling them where to look 3) the Indian societies were pre-literate and most of their oral traditions telling of old village site locations were never recorded by early settlers.

Since the year of 1906 the federal government has passed several laws and executive orders in order to try and preserve the cultural remains of both Indian and early Euro-American history. The government realized that the native cultures had been largely destroyed and their cultural remains were likewise disappearing under the shovel of "pot-hunters", the construction of towns, and the activities of road builders, loggers, miners and others.

Each archeologic site is like a book of which only one copy exists. Properly excavated and analyzed, a site can tell who lived there, when they lived there, how large the group was, what the people ate, the climate at the time, the type of social organization the group practiced, average life spans, religious practices and even some of the diseases they suffered from. If this site is destroyed, either through the purposeful digging of relic hunters or through the accidental activities of house, road, sewer line, water line, or other developers, then the book, which is public property has been burned.

Physical description of property and statement of historical significance:

The Edward Somerville house is a two story, wood frame dwelling in the Queen Anne Style. This structure, which has a very irregular shape and roof pitch, is set on a stone foundation. The building has three, large, decorated, brick chimneys and basically a hip roof. A tower rises on the southwest corner of the west (front) elevation and has imbricated shingling on the upper part of the second story. The principal exterior material is shiplap siding. The front porch has a round bay on the northwest corner with a cone roof. Another porch is located on the northeast corner of the building. The windows are mostly one-over-one, double hung sash.

In 1902 Edward Somerville was a member of the Pendleton City Council. Gordon Macnab in his history of Umatilla County published in 1975 referred to Dr. E. J. Somerville who was residing in Pendleton in 1915.

statement of historical significance:

The former T.B. Taylor and Brock Hardware Store is a block-long brick building of one story that faces 221 South Main as well as Southwest First. The photograph attached is of the west (rear) elevation of the building on Southwest First. This section of the structure is presently the Blacksmith Tavern and Restaurant. The remainder of the building contains six or seven executive offices and a wine and gift shop.

This building has three bays on its west elevation. The center entry bay is now flanked by two, new iron lanterns. The window bays to the north and south are partially filled-in. Original iron bar shutters remain on the bay to the north. A new arch, doorway has been cut on the south side of this elevation to create a walkway along the south side of the building which opens into offices and leads through the block to South Main Street. A center facade rises above the entry bay and is flanked by chimneys.

This building has been significantly altered. The Taylor and Brock safe remains in the old office.

Statement of historical significance:

The W. S. Bowman Building is a two story, stone building with vague "castle-like" styling which stands on the east side of South Main Street on the south bank of the Umatilla River. This building is constructed of dressed stones and has a two story, round bay on its northwest corner. The windows are one-over-one, double hung sash. A "fort-like" stone facade is located at the roof level and bears the inscription "W.S. Bowman" on its west (front) elevation. The structure has an office on its first floor as well as apartments.

Walter S. Bowman, turn-of-the-century photographer in Umatilla County, was born in Umatilla County on February 8, 1865. He was a son of Henry and Elizabeth (Owens) Bowman. Henry Bowman emigrated overland to Oregon in 1860 and settled in Umatilla County where he died in 1892. In 1887 Walter S. Bowman became a photographer, working initially for T. C. Ward. In 1890 Bowman bought out Ward and commenced operating his own gallery. Bowman married on November 24, 1896, to Elizabeth M. Carroll.

historical significance:

The Bowman Hotel is a three story, brick building, which reaches for one block along Frazer Street between Southwest First and Southwest Main in Pendleton, Oregon. This large and very balanced appearing building overlooks the railroad yards to the south and is adjacent to the railroad depot. The structure has its main entry on the center of the south elevation. The entry has decorative, roughly dressed, stone blocks set in the brick pilasters on either side of the entry bay. The small, projecting shelf or facade at the roof level is supported by brackets. This facade is made of metal. The fenestration is regular: one-over-one, double hung sash windows set with transom panes in eighteen bays on either side of the entry on the second and third stories. The building contains several commercial areas on the first story.

The Bowman Hotel now is used primarily by transients and for apartments for the elderly. The commercial areas include a Dry Cleaners and an Outdoor Supply Store.

The Bowman Hotel was erected in 1903 at a cost of $25-30,000 (according to the East Oregonian) by Purl Bowman, a Umatilla County farmer. Later Hugh Bowman, a son of Purl Bowman, stated that the hotel was built by Henry Bowman, Purl's brother. Purl Bowman managed this hotel as did his son, Hugh Bowman.
